

April 2017 Photo Album

As every month does, April had its ups and downs. Regardless, we can praise the Lord, because we know he remains faithful. The boys are going strong in school, we've had lots of fun enjoying God's beautiful creation, and we participated in the "International Day for Street Children" by hosting an event and sharing information about street-connected youth in order to inspire others to help support the change we are fighting for. Check out this album to learn more!

OUR TIME 2017

Celebrating the International Day for Street Children

On April 12, we celebrated the “International Day for Street Children,” a day to recognize and advocate for kids who spend the majority of their lives on the streets. These children often come from difficult, impoverished and/or dangerous homes, pushing them into vulnerable situations on the streets. During the month of April, we shared information about the issues street-connected kids face, and we hosted a special event on the Day for Street Children for some of the youth we’ve been ministering to. This event was an opportunity for us to share hospitality and love with a population that is often met with passivity, rejection or even violence. Having the opportunity to love these young people, teaching them about their dignity and rights as humans made in God’s image, is such a blessing!

Learn more by looking at #OURTIME17 and #WhyMicah on social media!

OUR TIME 17

Life at Micah

This month, we celebrated Edward's 4th anniversary in the Micah house, enjoyed God's beautiful creation, and had fun with school projects.

Life at Micah

God is good all the time. Yet on this side of eternity we still face battles against evil everyday. And even though it's tough, our hearts remain with street-connected youth who are still making unwise decisions. Our hearts remain especially with young men like Luis, Axel Josue, and others who have left our homes.

As we ask for your continued support of these kids, we must request new prayers for Josue, who sadly left the Micah house this month. This teen is searching healing and fighting great battles. Let's pray that God would radically change his life. We at the Micah Project cannot save him, but we know that God is able to do miracles. Let's give Him glory and boast in His redeeming work. It's tough, but we're thankful that He lets us participate, and we have hope that He is the God who saves.

Micah Smiles

We thank God for the fun times we had in April. Here are a few cool memories: Some of the guys won first place in a church soccer tournament, and we celebrated Hector's 21st birthday and Axel's 19th birthday! God is good. God is faithful.

